

How could things look different in the future?

What can you see in the image in front of you?

What might be to the left of what you can see?

What might be to the right of what you can see?

How might things have looked different in the past?